Media Release

Athene Communications continues to soar in 2011

Peterborough-based PR and communications consultancy Athene Communications is pleased to announce the latest addition to their growing team.

Steve Titman - an award winning BBC journalist and producer – will work across a range of projects as the PR specialists expand their client base.

Athene has recently been awarded contracts with Nene Park Academy, Compton Estate Agents and the Perkins Great Eastern Run.

Steve joins Athene after five years with the BBC – in which he achieved record breaking listener figures at Radio Cambridgeshire – and collected one of the highest awards in local radio. He brings a wealth of experience of how the modern media works and how content is now produced over a range of platforms. He understands what the media requires – and has a vast experience of delivering key messages concisely to give maximum impact.

A key addition to Athene - Steve has a great range of contacts across Peterborough, Cambridgeshire and the Eastern Region.

Managing Director of Athene Richard Astle said: “Steve’s creativity will help to generate new ideas and fresh angles to increase coverage. He’s well versed in the benefits of social media – having built up an extensive offering for BBC Radio Cambridgeshire across a variety of sites. Steve is keen to add additional and new ways to promote clients. He hopes to bring audio and visual offerings which will help build interest across social media.”
